ONLY-IN-SANTA FE ATTRACTIONS

THE SANTA FE PLAZA

The heart of downtown Santa Fe for more than 400 years, the Plaza hosts art markets, community gatherings, concerts and more.

CANYON ROAD

One of Santa Fe's oldest roads, Canyon Road packs more than 80 galleries along a half-mile stretch.

PALACE OF THE GOVERNORS

Built by the Spanish as a government building in 1610, the Palace remains the country's oldest continuously occupied public building and serves as a history museum.

GEORGIA O'KEEFFE MUSEUM

The Georgia O'Keeffe Museum is the single largest repository of O'Keeffe's work in the world.

THE RAILYARD

Once a stop along the famed Burlington Santa Fe Railroad, The Railyard is now one of Santa Fe's premier mixed-use areas with contemporary galleries, live performances, retail shopping and innovative dining.

THE SANTA FE OPERA

World-renown productions take place at the Opera's famed outdoor theater with breathtaking 360-degree vistas.

MUSEUM HILL

Museum Hill is home to four of Santa Fe's marquee museums: The Museum of Indian Arts and Culture, the Wheelwright Museum of the American Indian, The Museum of Spanish Colonial Arts, and The Museum of International Folk Art.

MEOW WOLF

The Meow Wolf Art Complex is home to Meow Wolf's first permanent installation, House of Eternal Return.
